Second generation

CHRIS MCGEE HAS FOLLOWED
IN HIS PARENTS' FOOTSTEPS BY INVESTING
IN AN OSCAR PET FOOD FRANCHISE

When Chris McGee began contemplating becoming his own boss, there was one particular franchise that came highly recommended.

He explains: "Sometimes things happen for a reason and little did I know that when my parents, Peter and Avril McGee, sold their successful south Nottinghamshire OSCAR franchise so they could retire I would be following in their footsteps - albeit in a neighbouring area and three years later.

"I enjoyed 11 years of supporting my parents in business. I was old enough to get involved - managing the holiday breaks and providing back-up with storekeeping, etc. At the time it was a novelty to do something different from my normal day job."

RESALE

But times change and Chris was ready for a new career. "Having dealt with the public in a sales capacity for many years, I was tempted to use these skills in my own business," he says. "Recalling my parents' success, I looked at the option of franchising and discovered an OSCAR resale business was available within my own postcode area."

Chris didn't hesitate in taking things to the next stage: "OSCAR was already a proven system and, besides having excellent communication and support from head office, my knowledge of the business gave me a head start and a very good insight.

"I have the best of both worlds as I'm able to work from home and have the flexibility to plan my days around customers and family. And I also have the bonus of caring for pets - Woody, my Cocker Spaniel, has been thriving on OSCAR food for many years."

Chris adds: "Despite what has gone before me, this is very much the beginning of a familiar way of life. My intentions are to run a business that's the number one in turnover and the number one in sales, thus creating a third generation for OSCAR."
