OSCAR much more than a franchise®

Lapping up new life with Oscar

HAVING served 30 years as a warrant officer in the Royal Navy, followed by a spell working as a technical author for the MoD, Michael Cameron was drawn to the franchising industry where he took on a printing business.

When the long hours on a daily basis started to take their toll, he sought another franchise opportunity and found Oscar Pet Foods.

He said: "I was lucky enough to sell my business and discover Oscar, especially when I soon realised that I still needed to have a goal. With Oscar,

I have a business that combines flexibility and the chance for me to enjoy the great outdoors."

Mr Cameron, whose franchise territory covers Rosneath, Helensburgh and Dumbarton, carried out research of the company and its procedures before making the final decision to join.

He added: "I have taken great pleasure in expanding my business, ensuring that no pet will miss out on the products and service that my dogs enjoy."
