Allison's pet project

AFTER 27 years of working for the family business in the building trade, Allison Wright (pictured) decided on a change of direction and joined Oscar Pet Foods as a franchisee.

With two dogs of her own, Monty and Jasper, a business that involved pets had instant appeal and now, halfway through her first year covering the Tyne and Wear area, she is feeling very positive about the future.

She said: "I am thrilled with my Oscar franchise.

"Throughout the early stages of my development the Oscar team have been a fantastic support and there is always someone to help with every aspect of the business.

"As I have an exclusive territory, I am able to work closely with my neighbouring franchisees, establishing strong lines of support where we can enjoy shared opportunities such as shows and other events in our areas.

"I have been used to working in a family building business and appreciate that you have to be disciplined to succeed.

"To have a business that gives you so many rewards by improving and maintaining the life of a pet beats the building trade for me."
