Pet subject is worth targeting

LAURENCE Slade had a dream that one day he would run his own business but he didn't know what until he discovered Oscar pet food.

It was the business concept that appealed to him and his father Malcolm who saw it as an ideal opportunity that they could share.

"We explored many franchise possibilities but Oscar presented us with clear and achievable targets enabling us to prepare a business plan," said Laurence.

"We were made to feel at ease throughout each stage of the transition and the Oscar team was patient and helpful.

"Having checked out the competition we concluded that Oscar product is high quality and well priced. Customer feedback shows that we can assist in supporting many pet health issues through improved diet.

"Working together, Dad and I want to enjoy job satisfaction and build something to be proud of."
