GET ON BOARD

Mister Tacho is looking to recruit enthusiastic franchisees across the UK to satisfy the demand for its services

If you're a person who enjoys helping others, are reasonably competent on a computer and want to determine your own earnings level, a Mister Tacho franchise could be for you.

It will also appeal if you want to work without any organised competition, want a steady income, want to invest in a scalable business and want to enter at the start of the opportunity, not in a saturated market.

REQUIRED BY LAW

Another benefit of the Mister Tacho franchise is the services provided by franchisees are required by law.

Providing monthly compliance reports to business owners, required of them by law, gives you a regular monthly income, an hourly rate of £40-£50 working from home and a scalable business - from one-man-band to a managed franchise.

Following its successful test phase and pilot projects, Mister Tacho is now looking to recruit enthusiastic and reliable franchisees across the UK to satisfy the demand for its services.

PATH TO PROSPERITY

Fresh out of university, Amy Seward invested in an OSCAR Pet Foods delivery franchise

According to Amy Seward, completing her masters degree in history and art was not going to result in an instant career in an uncertain job market.

She says: "My fondness for animals, especially dogs, made me consider my career options and the more I thought about it the more I found myself being pulled in that direction."

IMPRESSED

Amy researched a variety of franchise opportunities before coming across OSCAR. "The company instantly impressed me with their online presence," she says.

"I could relate to the OSCAR brand and further investigation led me to find it a believable product, a tried and tested system, but with the flexibility to adapt the business to suit my style.

"My ambition to create a long-term future is much clearer now that I'm working with animals.

"OSCAR takes time to ensure franchisees have regular contact through regional meetings and discussion surgeries, which helps to keep everyone in touch and up to date with new ideas and products.

"I've found everything is designed to suit you and your local area. Currently, I'm in the process of increasing my community marketing.

"Being in the public eye through country shows and events is a great place to meet pets and people socially, building relationships that lead to new customers."
