1. Picking up after your dog prevents the transmission of intestinal infections and diseases to other dogs and people.
2. Roundworm and hookworm can be transmitted to children and adults who play or work where faeces are present.
3. In warm summer months, abandoned faeces leave an offensive odour.
4. Failure to pick up after your dog increases the risk of dogs being banned from parks and local areas.
5. Local authorities have the power to enforce Dog Fouling By-Laws. A person in charge of a dog on a walk has a legal responsibility to pick up after that dog. Failure to pick up after your dog can result in a fine of up to £1000.
