Family friendly

As OSCAR franchisees, Rachel and Andy Jackson are able to accommodate home life with their customers' needs

An OSCAR pet food home delivery franchise is designed to support self-employment in conjunction with life changing experiences - as Rachel and Andy Jackson from Welwyn will confirm.

"Having purchased an OSCAR resale franchise, our focus in the first 12 months of trading was to consolidate good relationships with existing customers and reassure them the only change to their service was a new face," says Rachel.

"The experience also helped us to learn more about the art of customer relations, while giving us the building blocks for establishing new business."

Convenient

Through recommendations, referrals, canvassing and shows Rachel and Andy are proving just how much of a difference they have made in providing a convenient, complete pet care service.

Explains Rachel: "Satisfaction is being able to maintain a happy, healthy lifestyle for every pet, while helping other pets with underlying problems. Within six months a change of diet has not only helped the condition of an ageing Collie suffering with colitis, it has also improved the quality of life of an elderly Newfoundland.

"Our customers love the local, family business concept and having initially introduced our dog Heno to the sales force, we have since become the proud parents of William, who is now included in our team. We have found the benefits of our OSCAR business perfect - having the flexibility of working from home, we are able to accommodate family life with our customers' needs."

Dedicated

Rachel adds: "Coming from a background of project management, we have planned our progress in stages, but with the dedicated support from an established organisation we are able to enjoy our success in the midst of some very big changes in our personal life." WF
