Join dog owners across the UK in the 'Take Your Dog To Work Day' on Friday 24th June 2011

16th June 2011

There's one day in the year when it's official - you can take your dog to work!

The Blue Cross pet charity encourages dog owners to become involved and bring their career-seeking canines to enjoy one day of stealing the limelight.

Time spent in each other's company is all part of bonding a relationship, forming, as Oscar would say: 'A happier, healthier and longer life together'.

Friday 24th June is the official day but if you're an Oscar Pet Food Nutritional Advisor you could take your dog to work every day. In promoting responsible pet ownership Oscar knows that its Complete Pet Care Service delivers, direct to the door, a range of foods to suit many lifestyles – complete with free advice on nutrition and behaviour plus health care products, toys, treats and training aids.

A career opportunity with Oscar will open a whole new way of life. Working from home and delivering a quality product to a very satisfied customer gives you a great future that is supported and secure.

Oscar Nutritional Advisor Claire Taylor from Manchester says " My Dogue De Bordeaux Shamba loves coming to work with me and she is great company. After a hard days work delivering, visiting customers and of course a walk round the park Shamba is ready for a sleep. I could not resist taking this picture!"
