Park project needs volunteers

VOLUNTEERS with green fingers and an interest in conservation are needed to take part in a research project at Williamson Park.

The Greenfingers Research Project aims to encourage community involvement in green projects at Williamson Park.

All ages and fitness levels are catered for with a choice of tasks including; planting, digging, sawing and clearance work.

The sessions take place every Thursday from 10am to 1pm starting on September 29.

Students from the Sports Studies degree programme at the University of Cumbria are planning the project with assistance from Lancaster City Council staff at Williamson Park. A council spokesman said: "The students will benefit from gaining experience from planning the sessions and studying the physical, social and psychological benefits of engagement with outdoor conservation."

If you want to join Greenfingers, registration for volunteers is from 10am to 10.30am on September 29 in the park's café.
